The Classroom Garden

Ms. Patel's class wanted to grow a garden. One sunny Monday, they brought seeds, soil, and pots to school. Each student planted something different. Mia planted sunflowers, Ben chose tomatoes, and Lily picked carrots.

Every morning, the students watered their plants and checked their growth. They kept a chart on the wall to track how tall each plant grew. The classroom smelled fresh and earthy.

One day, a tomato appeared on Ben's plant! Everyone cheered. A week later, Mia's sunflowers opened with big yellow petals. Lily's carrots took the longest, but they were strong and sweet when pulled from the soil.

The class made a little salad with the veggies they grew. They were proud of their hard work and decided to keep gardening all year!
